Make No Deals With The Devil

September 19, 2001 at 12:01 AM

“You cannot and must never make any deal with the devil. With his smooth words and sweet talk, he will cause you to believe a pack or covenant can be made with him. He is a liar and will always be a liar. All in the past who comprised their walk with Me to cover up sin are in hell today. No man wins. All lose. Remember the devil comes to seal. What does he steal? Your soul is his catch.

Keep yourself humble in My service. When you seek Me, the devil must flee. I tell you this for I love you. In the dream you just had, you were comprising your values so the devil would leave you alone. But in reality he captures your soul. Not right away, but in the end, for that day your feet left My path.

Who represents Satan? Any man or woman or child who will lead My children off of My path. Beware it will be a small comprise to start with and that will be only the beginning. Once the first step is taken more steps will follow more easily.

Look about you, at church leaders and Christians. You ask why the truth of My word is not being brought forth and those hearing the incomplete truth of My word agree. Look at their fruits--their speaking, actions, values and life style. Do they serve Me fully in words and actions or Me in words and the world in actions? Those who serve me in Words and the world in actions have struck a deal with Satan. Their path is to the grave and Hell. You cannot not serve two masters and have love, joy and peace. Look closely at those who are comprised. They only have on a happy face in the day walking in the world, but cry all night in torment. Their love, peace and joy is false just like their walk with Me is false. Repentance of their sinning ways will restore their life, love, peace and joy. Nothing less. Time is short and those who have been in My mercy for years and years will be lost if they are caught in the areas where I bring discipline and judgment upon this nation. Death and Hell will be their home when they die in the flesh.”
