The Older You Get

October 23,2002 at 5:00 AM.

As I lay in bed talking to the Lord and praying in the Spirit I heard this “The older you get”. I picked up my pen and pad and the Holy Spirit spoke—“The older you get means aging physically and spiritually. This speaks of maturity in your walk with me. The older you get, the devil should have a much harder time tempting you. The older you get you should be feeding upon the solid meats and not the milk. The older you get you should know me intimately for you hear my voice. The older you get your faith should be increased and you walk by your faith and not by your logic. The older you get you should be obeying the Spirit and think not what others and the world are saying. The older you get it should be your hearts desire to serve me first, in all things. The older you get your knowledge, wisdom and understanding of my thoughts, my ways, and my plans should be applied to your life and reflected by your lifestyle and speech as an example to others in the ‘church’ and the world. The older you get the brighter my light should radiate from you. The older you get you should know who you are in me and the plans I have for your life. The older you get you should know about Spiritual authority and be submitted to that authority. The older you get you will know you are my sons and daughters and as such, you know that you are heirs in all I have on this earth and in heaven. The older you get your maturity allows you to use the keys of the Kingdom for binding and loosing and to stand in the day of evil knowing I am your protector.

How sad it is for those who profess and claim salvation. They are like children tossed to and fro by every wind of new doctrines. They never age spiritually and only physically and have never tasted the things of the world to come while living in this world and are dying for lack of knowledge. I love all and I am a forgiving God with unlimited grace and mercy. I cry out, enter into my Kingdom. Don’t just stand at the door. Then the older you get, the more you will know me and not just know about me. I am the living God who weeps for my family on earth. The ones who no longer want what my Kingdom can offer them on this earth. As you age, become older not only physically but spiritually and inherit and be blessed now of all I have to give freely to those who seek me. The older you get the more all the things of my Kingdom should be added unto you.” Amen.
