Heed what the Lord has spoken in my prayer closet today.

“I have been patience and longsuffering waiting for My children to repent that they may have their day of salvation. Just as I judged the children of Isreal in the days gone by, I must judge them again. For I gathered them from where I scattered them to this nation and gave them this land as I did their ancestors in days gone by. As their ancestors turned their backs on me, they too have disowned Me and made a mockery of Me. No longer will I tolerate their actions of lust and greed. I will not let their sins go unpunished nor will I break My covenant with them.

Who will live and who will die in the days forth coming? Who will repent and serve Me? Who is ready for their day of salvation? Only those in truth and love obeying My commands coming into maturity with love serving Me being ready for their day of salvation.

I speak to My prophet again this day reminding you to quit your sinning of disobedience to My commands and Word that you may prepare and live. Heap no more coals of burning sin in your lap, seek knowledge and wisdom from the One who can send your soul and spirit to hell. Fear Me, the I AM, repent and live. For when I change things, it will be too late for many if they have repented not. Hell will be enlarged to receive the multitudes of sinning Christians that die in My judgments. As surely as the sun rises each morning, My judgments will be completed upon this nation to make My Church ready.

Until I change things, repent and obey being ready for your day of salvation. For suddenly I will change things and the blanket of judgments will fall upon this nation. There will be no peace, no rest and no interlude. When judgments begin they will not stop until completed. Woe unto those who repented not claiming heaven as their home.

I judge to make My Church ready, and then I will come again to receive praise and worship from My Church. I tarry not and if you are wise you will tarry not and repent.” Amen.
