“I made man in my image. I gave man a mind to think and make choices. I made man to be independent and dependant. Independent to learn and think for himself. Dependant to seek me for life. Because of the two, independence and dependence, there will always be a conflict of believing in self in all things or believing in me for all things. Those who believe in themselves will fall and those who believe in me will be lifted up. As man stands, he has self and he has me. Man will always battle between self and me and who he will submit his will to. There in lies the problem of differences of opinions and beliefs. When man’s opinions and beliefs also called traditions and doctrines over ride my doctrines there is conflict.

Conflict between man and me was in the beginning and will be until the end. But between the beginning and the end, man must obey my commandants to live in peace. When my commandants are understood and obeyed there is unity and love. But if man lets his traditions and doctrines block my commandants there is strife, for there is no love or truth.

How much longer will man refuse my wine? How much longer will man be separated from me? When will man come into my truths? When will man quit drinking the wine of his traditions and doctrines? Who is this man I am talking about?

The man I am talking about is called a Christian in a denominational Church today. He will be given a chance to drink the new wine I will be offering as judgments continue. Now man thinks the old wine tastes better, but it will turn bitter in the pain and sorrow of judgments. In judgments I will pour out the new wine that is not new but aged from the beginning. Only those who drink the wine of my Word and obey will have life.

Which wine will you drink, the wine of traditions and doctrines that leads to death or my wine of life? Remember if you mix the two wines there will be conflicts and strife between men. Drink the wine of my Word and live in peace with love among your fellow men. As a snake sheds his skin, shed your old wine skin for my wine skin. Only with the new wine in the new wine skin will you be the church I will have for the closing of this age. My church will be pure and holy as I am pure and holy.” Amen.
